

2n. LaSalle

Problem:

We were contacted by the architectural firm, Solomon Caldwell Benz concerning this interesting project located in downtown Chicago. The issue with the design was a lobby where industrial doors were necessary, however, distracted from the overall beauty of the construction. Our design consultancy on this project provided a solution for the lobby area which allowed doors to be hidden by fabricating a creative distraction from the heavy, industrial feel with stainless framing welded, laminated glass and cables installed at the site.

Solution:

